

Capitol Insurrection At Center Of Conservative Movement: At Least 21 Former GOP Operatives Are Involved With Groups That Planned January 6th Rally

SUMMARY: On January 6, 2021, a rally in support of overturning the results of the 2020 presidential election "turned deadly" when thousands of people stormed the U.S. Capitol at Donald Trump's urging. Despite the causal relationship between Trump's speech, and his broader advancement of baseless conspiracies, prominent Republican members of Congress and state Republican parties have claimed that "antifa" and leftists were behind the assault on the Capitol, calling it a "false flag."

To the contrary, at least 21 key members of the groups that helped plan the January 6th rally have been Republican party operatives and/or Trump surrogates, nine of whom worked directly for Donald Trump and members of his administration.

The links that these individuals have to the Republican party are:

The Rule of Law Defense Fund—an arm of the Republican Attorney Generals Association (RAGA) formerly chaired by Trump's disgraced EPA administrator Scott Pruitt—made robocalls urging a march on the Capitol the day before the deadly insurrection occurred there. RAGA's executive director, who previously "spearheaded" RLDF and worked as a GOP operative, promptly resigned following backlash over the group's role in the riots.

- Adam Piper, RAGA's former Executive Director who "spearheaded" the RLDF and resigned following the riots, was a South Carolina GOP official, and a senior staffer for Mike Huckabee and Jon Huntsman's presidential campaigns.
- Lee Russell, RAGA CFO and former RLDF treasurer, was a longtime staffer with stints at major Republican campaign committees such as the National Republican Senatorial Committee and the Republican State Leadership Committee as well as the Mississippi State Republican Party.

Turning Point Action, an arm of right-wing Turning Point USA, claimed to send "80+ buses full of patriots" to the rally that led to the Capitol riot, asserting the event would be one of the most "consequential" in U.S. history.

- Tyler Bowyer, COO of Turning Point USA, has been a long-time Arizona Republican Party official, currently serving as National Committeeman for the state GOP.
- Justin Olson, CFO of Turning Point USA, is a former Arizona State Representative, a former congressional aide to Arizona Republican Trent Franks (R-AZ), and was appointed to the Arizona Corporation Commission by Republican Governor Doug Ducey.
- Alexandria Seavey, Event Strategy Director at Turning Point USA, was a staffer for Ted Cruz's (R-TX) 2016 presidential campaign.

Tea Party Patriots, which claims to be the "largest and most effective national umbrella group within the Tea Party movement," is led by Jenny Beth Martin, a former GOP operative. Ahead of the Capitol riot rallies, Martin tweeted, "We must demand Congress to challenge the Electoral College votes and fight for President Trump!"

- Jenny Beth Martin, Tea Party Patriots Co-Founder and CEO, worked as a county campaign chair for former GOP Senator Saxby Chambliss' (R-GA) 2008 Senate Campaign, and was a "paid consultant for local republican candidates."

Women For America First's Chair Amy Kremer was on the permit for the rally that led to the Capitol riot and the group encouraged a "caravan" there. Not only did the group help promote "Stop the Steal" protests alongside white nationalist groups as early as November 2020, Kremer amplified the movement by promoting her daughter's own "Stop the Steal" Facebook group and supercharging its prominence before it was banned.

- Amy Kremer, Chair of Women for America First, is the co-founder of Women For Trump, is a cofounder of Tea Party Patriots, and a former "Director of Grass Roots & Coalitions" at Tea Party Express.
- Kylie Kremer, who was listed as a "person in charge" on the March To Save Trump Rally permit, is the director of the Women For Trump PAC and was also a founder of the "Stop the Steal" Facebook group.
- Caroline Wren, "VIP Advisor" to Women For America First, was the Finance Director For Senator Lindsey Graham's (R-SC) 2014 Senate reelection campaign, the former Associate Director Of Major Donors at GOPAC, the former National Finance Consultant for Holloway Consulting, and Southeast Finance Director for Republican Governor Jon Huntsman's (R-UT) 2012 presidential campaign.
- Maggie Mulvaney, "VIP Lead" to Women For America First, was the Director Of Finance Operations And Manager Of External Affairs for Donald Trump's 2020 presidential campaign and the Finance Director for former Congressman Sean Duffy's (R-WI) successful 2014 congressional campaign.
- Megan Powers, "Operations Manager for Scheduling and Guidance" for Women For America First, was the Director Of Operations For Trump's 2020 Presidential Campaign, the Campaign Coordinator and Press Lead For Trump's 2016 Presidential Campaign, served in an unnamed role For The 58th Presidential Inaugural Committee, and was the Lead Press Representative /Senior Lead Press Representative within Trump's Executive Office of the President.
- Justin Caporale, "Project Manager" for Women For America First, was a top aide to First Lady Melania Trump and is Partner At Event Strategies, Inc. whose clients include prominent Republican campaigns and organizations.
- Tim Unes, "Stage Manager" for Women For America First, is the founder and President Of Event Strategies, was the Deputy Director of Advance for Trump's 2016 Presidential Campaign, the Tour Director For Senator Bob Dole's \(R-KS\) 1996 Presidential Campaign, the Lead Advance Representative at George H. W. Bush's Department of Transportation, the Presidential Advance Representative To President George H.W. Bush, and the Vice Presidential Advance Representative for Vice President Dan Quayle.
- Hannah Salem, "Operations Manager for Logistics and Communications" for Women For America First, was the Special Assistant to the President and Director of Advance at the Trump White House, a staffer for former Congressman Spencer Bacchus \(R-AL\), the Chief Aide And Campaign Manager to former North Carolina State Senator Ronald Rabin \(R-NC\), a Legislative Aide to former Louisiana State Representative Hunter Greene \(R-LA\), and an aide to former Louisiana governor Bobby Jindal \(R-LA\) in the Louisiana Oil Spill Coordinator's Office.
- Ron Holden, "Backstage Manager" for Women for American First, received at least \$72,000 from the Trump Campaign for "payroll and consulting," is the former Director of Advance for Trump Attorney General Bill Barr, was an Associated Advance for President Trump, was a Special Assistant at the Trump U.S. Department of Education, and was a Staffer within Former Governor Christ Christie \(R-NJ\) Gubernatorial Office and Presidential Campaign.
- Kiran Menon, "Operations Associate 2" for Women for America First, was an intern for Senator Ben Sasse \(R-NE\), a staffer for Virginia Republican Tina Ramirez's 2020 Congressional Campaign, an intern for Heritage Action for America, an intern for the Christian Legal Society, and an intern for the American Conservative Union.

- James Oaks, "Operations Associate" for Women for America First, received at least \$126,000 in salary from the Trump Campaign.
- William Wilson, "Backstage Assistant" for Women for America First; received approximately \$6,000 from the Trump campaign from October 2020 to November 2020.

The Phyllis Schlafly Eagles, spawned from the notorious legacy of anti-feminist and Equal Rights Amendment opponent Phyllis Schlafly, promoted the rally by comparing it to D-Day.

- Ed Martin, President of the Schlafly Eagles, was a Missouri GOP candidate for Attorney General and Congress—in addition to being the former chairman of Missouri Republican Party, the chief of staff to former Missouri GOP Governor Matt Blunt, and chair of the St. Louis Board of Elections.
- Ryan Hite, Communications Director for the Schlafly Eagles, worked on numerous GOP election campaigns, including Todd Akin's 2012 (R–MO) senatorial campaign and a 2010 gubernatorial campaign in Pennsylvania.

The Black Conservatives Fund, which is tied to far right conspiracy group "Stop The Steal," promoted the rally that led to the Capitol riot to its 80,000 followers but then deleted its post touting the event after a major news outlet asked about it.

- Ali Alexander, former Senior Advisor to the Black Conservatives Fund and current Director of "Stop The Steal," was a staffer on John McCain's 2008 presidential campaign and digital director for Republican Jay Dardenne's 2015 Louisiana gubernatorial campaign.

These connections serve as a reminder that mainstream DC conservatives and the groups that stoked the riots are intertwined, despite the national GOP's attempts to distance itself from the insurrection. The movement must internally reckon with its deep ties to the groups behind the rallies and for the election fraud falsehoods its members spread well before January 6, 2021, a new date that "will live forever in infamy."

"Several thousand protesters cheered President Donald Trump and his baseless claims of election fraud at a rally near the White House on Wednesday ahead of Congress' vote to affirm President-elect Joe Biden's victory. 'We will not let them silence your voices,' Trump told the protesters, who had lined up before sunrise to get a prime position to hear the president...From the Ellipse south of the White House, the protesters planned to march to the Capitol before the vote. "Later at the U.S. Capitol, throngs of people pushed past police who were trying to block them from entering the building as lawmakers inside debated counting electoral college votes confirming Biden's victory. Five People—including An Officer Beaten To Death By The Rioting Mob And A Woman Shot As She Violently Entered The Building—Died During The Siege Of The Capitol. "These five people from disparate backgrounds and different corners of the country now share one fate: Their lives all ended last week as a mob incited by Mr. Trump stormed the Capitol. Federal prosecutors have opened investigations into the deaths of two — the officer beaten by pro-Trump rioters, and the California woman shot inside the Capitol. But the authorities have released limited information about the deaths of the others, while families and friends have been grappling with scattered accounts of their final actions that day." Reps. Matt Gaetz (R – FL), Rep. Mo Brooks (R – AL), and Rep. Paul Gosar (R – AZ) All Claimed With No Evidence That "Antifa" And Other Leftist Agitators Were Behind The Capitol Hill Riots. "On the House floor early on Thursday, hours after a violent, pro-Trump mob burst into the Capitol, Rep. Matt Gaetz (R-Fla.) expressed his anger at the perpetrators. But Gaetz wasn't pointing the finger at fellow Trump supporters — instead, he suggested members of antifa had secretly infiltrated the group to cause the chaos [...] There is no verifiable evidence that these activists, who broadly identify as anti-fascist, formed part of the insurrectionist mob that abruptly halted Congress in the midst of certifying President-elect Joe Biden's electoral victory [...] As conspiracy theories quickly spread online about the Capitol breach as a 'false flag operation,' conducted by left-wing activists to cast blame on Trump supporters, Rep. Paul A. Gosar (R-Ariz.) took to Twitter to point fingers... Speaking to Fox Business's Lou Dobbs on Wednesday night, Rep. Mo Brooks (R-Ala.) said 'there is some indication that fascist antifa elements were involved, that they embedded themselves in the Trump protests.'" Washington Post, [01/07/20]

Alexander, who organized the 'Stop the Steal' movement, said he hatched the plan — coinciding with Congress's vote to certify the electoral college votes — alongside three GOP lawmakers: Reps. Andy Biggs (Ariz.), Mo Brooks (Ala.) and Paul A. Gosar (Ariz.), all hard-line Trump supporters. 'We four schemed up of putting maximum pressure on Congress while they were voting,' Alexander said in a since-deleted video on Periscope highlighted by the Project on Government Oversight, an investigative nonprofit. The plan, he said, was to 'change the hearts and the minds of Republicans who were in that body, hearing our loud roar from outside.'" Washington Post, [01/13/21]

Hite Was The Deputy Campaign Manager For Pennsylvania State GOP Representative Sam Rohrer's 2010 Gubernatorial Campaign. "State Rep. Sam Rohrer, the other Republican in the race, raised $172,000 and ended the reporting period with $7,000 in the bank — a misleading sum, his campaign manager said, because it doesn't take into account a major fundraiser just after the reporting period ended. Ryan Hite said donations from the "moneybomb" — a rapid-response online fundraiser — would total about $100,000." Trib Live, [04/07/10]

The Black Conservatives Fund Promoted The Rally To its 80,000 Facebook Followers—And Deleted The Post When Confronted About It. "The Black Conservatives Fund, which has more than 80,000 followers on Facebook, called on people to come to the rally on Wednesday as well as the ensuing march on Capitol Hill. The Facebook post was published on its page Jan. 5, a day before the rally that led to a deadly riot at the U.S. Capitol. The post disappeared from the group's Facebook page after CNBC reached out to the committee last week through its general email address. CNBC captured a screen shot of it." CNBC, [01/11/21]

Ali Alexander Is The Right Wing Conspiracy Theorist And The Founder Of The "Stop The Steal" Movement And Was A Key Architect Of The Rally, Hoping It Would Convince Congress Not To Certify The Election Result. "Weeks before a mob of President Trump's supporters stormed the U.S. Capitol, right-wing activist Ali Alexander told his followers he was planning something big for Jan. 6. Alexander, who organized the 'Stop the Steal' movement, said he hatched the plan — coinciding with Congress's vote to certify the electoral college votes — alongside three GOP lawmakers: Reps. Andy Biggs (Ariz.), Mo Brooks (Ala.) and Paul A. Gosar (Ariz.), all hard-line Trump supporters." Washington Post, [01/31/21]

Alexander At One Point Was The Senior Advisor To The Black Conservatives Fund And Used Its Twitter Account To Promote His Personal Endeavors In 2016. "The Black Conservatives Fund, as it turns out, was Ali Akbar. (He has recently used the PAC's Twitter account to amplify his other endeavors). Although it's been dormant since 2016, according to the organization's last FEC report, it's still sitting on more than $200,000 in cash [...] At the time, Alexander had still been living in Fort Worth, and when the Dardenne campaign hired him as a Digital Director, he hadn't yet built an online persona. Even his role in the Black Conservatives Fund had been obscured; he called himself a 'senior advisor' and, for the most part, preferred to stay behind-the-scenes. Privately, those involved in Dardenne's campaign have expressed regret over hiring Alexander and claim to be appalled by the dirty tricks that have become a hallmark of his brand." Alexander Is A Former John McCain Presidential Campaign Staffer Who Was Reportedly Reprimanded For "Discussing Opportunities To Committing Voter Fraud." "[Alexander] entered national politics as a John McCain campaign staffer in 2007, when he was apparently reprimanded — ironically enough — for discussing opportunities to committing voter fraud during the Republican primary campaign. (Former McCain campaign officials contacted by Salon did not recall him, or the alleged incident.)" Salon, [11/18/20]

Alexander Was The Digital Director For Republican Jay Dardenne's 2015 Louisiana Gubernatorial Primary Campaign. "I've known Ali since 2015, when he served as the Digital Director of Republican Jay Dardenne's gubernatorial campaign. We've appeared opposite of one another at least twice on Jim Engster's statewide talk radio show, where the conversations were always civil and substantive, which is one of the reasons I've been so surprised to discover how dramatically different the 'Ali Alexander' of social media stardom is from the Ali Akbar I knew through Louisiana politics."
