

After Pledging To Suspend Contributions, 34 Fortune 100 Companies Donated More Than $5.4 Million To The Members Of Congress Who Voted Against Certifying The 2020 Election

Half Of The Fortune 100 Pledged To Suspend Contributions Following The Events Of January 6th, 34 Of Those Companies Then Donated $5.4 Million To The Members Of Congress Who Voted Against Certifying The 2020 Presidential Election.

50 Companies Among The Fortune 100 Pledged To Suspend Contributions Following The Events Of January 6th And 34 Of Those Companies Later Donated $5,481,900 To The Members Of Congress Who Voted Against Certifying The 2020 Presidential Election.

Company	Pledge to Suspend Contributions	Did They Resume Contributions (Y/N)	Amount
Abbott Laboratories	Abbott Laboratories told CNN it paused donations to all Congressional candidates indefinitely in the wake of the January 6, 2021 events.	Y	$93,500
AbbVie	AbbVie told CNN it paused donations to all Congressional candidates for six months or less in the wake of the January 6, 2021 events. AbbVie told CNN it paused donations to all federal candidates indefinitely in the wake of the January 6, 2021 events.	Y	$62,500
AIG	AIG told CNN it paused donations to all federal candidates indefinitely in the wake of the January 6, 2021 events.	N	$0
Allstate	“Allstate’s political action committee suspended contributions to lawmakers who objected to the counting of Electoral College votes from the 2020 presidential election because these actions did not align with the committee’s commitment to bipartisanship, collaboration and compromise. The committee will monitor and measure each lawmaker’s ongoing conduct against revised contribution criteria to determine reinstatement.”	Y	$27,500
Alphabet	“After the disturbing events at the Capitol, NetPAC paused all contributions while	N	$0

	undertaking a review.’ Google spokesperson José Castañeda said in a statement to CBS News. ‘Following that review, the NetPAC board has decided that it will not be making any contributions this cycle to any member of Congress who voted against certification of the election results.’”
Amazon	Amazon told CNN it paused donations to the election objectors indefinitely in the wake of the January 6, 2021 events.	Y	$15,500
American Express	“Last week’s attempts by some congressional members to subvert the presidential election results and disrupt the peaceful transition of power do not align with our American Express Blue Box values; therefore, the AXP PAC will not support them. The AXP PAC has not contributed to Senators who voted in favor of the objections to certain states’ Electoral College results. The PAC previously has made contributions to 22 of the 139 House members who voted in favor of the objections.”	Y	$10,000
AmerisourceBergen	“AmerisourceBergen will suspend all political giving to elected officials while we evaluate criteria which will be used to determine future contributions. All of the company’s actions are assessed on their alignment with our purpose of creating healthier futures and we’ll use a period of time to ensure policies that govern political giving reflect that principle.”	Y	$5,000
Archer Daniels Midland (ADM)	“In light of recent events, ADM is expeditiously conducting a thorough review of all of its political donation policies to ensure that these policies fully reflect ADM’s values as a company. We will suspend making any new political donations until we have completed that review.”	Y	$15,000
AT&T	“Employees on our Federal PAC Board convened a call today and decided to suspend contributions to members of Congress who voted to object to the certification of Electoral College votes last week.”	Y	$600,900
Bank of America	“Our PAC contributes to both parties and takes a lot of factors into account.	N	$0

	However in the next election cycle the PAC will review its decision making criteria in light of the actions that contributed to the appalling violent assault on the U.S. Capitol.
Best Buy	"Best Buy has made the decision to stop providing campaign contributions to the 147 members of Congress who voted in objection to certifying the presidential election results,' the company said in a statement to FOX Business."	N	$0
Boeing	"Boeing strongly condemns the violence, lawlessness and destruction that took place in the U.S. Capitol on January 6, 2021. Given the current environment, we are not making political contributions at this time."	Y	$391,500
Bristol-Myers Squibb	"Similarly, Bristol Myers Squibb has paused all political donations since January 6. Bristol Myers Squibb donated $2,500 in 2018."	Y	$50,000
Cigna	"There is never any justification for violence or destruction of the kind we saw at the U.S. Capitol – the building that such a powerful symbol of the very democracy that makes our nation strong.' He added: 'Accordingly, CignaPAC will discontinue support of any elected official who encouraged or supported violence, or otherwise hindered the peaceful transition of power.'"	Y	$206,500
Coca-Cola	"In a statement, Coca-Cola said they were 'stunned' and have suspended political giving. 'We were all stunned by the unlawful and violent events that unfolded in our nation's capital on Jan. 6, and we are grateful that Democracy prevailed with the subsequent certification of the election results.'"	N	$0
Comcast	"We will suspend all of our political contributions to those elected officials who voted against certification of the Electoral College votes, which will give us the opportunity to review our political giving policies and practices."	Y	$374,000
Dell Technologies	"The employee-led Dell Technologies PAC board of directors has voted to suspend all contributions to members of Congress whose statements and activities during the	N	$0

	post-election period are not in line with Dell's principles.
Dow	"Dow is immediately suspending all corporate and employee political action committee (PAC) contributions to any member of Congress who voted to object to the certification of the presidential election."	N	$0
Exelon	"Like most Americans, we were extremely disturbed by what we witnessed at the Capitol last week and the events leading up to it, and will take this opportunity to conduct a thorough review of our political contributions and PAC activity. While we conduct our review, we will not be making contributions to lawmakers who voted to contest the outcome of the election."	Y	$15,000
Ford Motor	"In order to give these important discussions the time and reflection they deserve, the Ford PAC will be suspending new contributions for now."	Y	$73,500
General Electric	"The GEPAC board has voted to suspend donations to those who voted to oppose the Electoral College results. This is not a decision we made lightly, but is one we believe is important to ensure that our future contributions continue to reflect our company's values and commitment to democracy."	Y	$23,500
General Motors	"GM's PAC has paused new contributions. In 2020, we enhanced the character and public integrity criteria for making contributions and that will help to guide our decisions moving forward."	Y	$208,000
Goldman Sachs Group	"Goldman Sachs is freezing donations through its PAC and will conduct 'a thorough assessment of how people acted during this period,' a spokesman, Jake Siewert, told DealBook."	Y	$8,000
Home Depot	"We are pausing to take time to carefully review and reevaluate each of the members who voted to object to the election results before considering further contributions to them. While the PAC is making contribution decisions on the next cycle, as always, it will evaluate future donations against a number of factors. Our PAC supports candidates on both sides of the aisle who champion pro-business,	Y	$475,000

	pro-retail positions that create jobs and economic growth.”
HP	“This was a free and fair election. Any attempt to overturn the will of voters is a threat to our democracy. HP’s Political Action Committee did not make any contributions during this cycle to members who voted against the certification of the presidential election results. We have suspended all PAC contributions while we review our go-forward policies. We believe it’s important for all companies to take a fresh look at their PACs and the causes they support.”	N	$0
Intel	“Intel’s Political Action Committee continuously reevaluates its contributions to candidates to ensure that they align with our values, policies and priorities. While Intel’s PAC will continue bipartisan contributions, we will not contribute to members of Congress who voted against certification of the Electoral College results as we feel that action was counter to our company’s values.”	Y	$95,000
Johnson & Johnson	“Johnson & Johnson strongly condemns the tragic and violent events that occurred at the United States Capitol. These actions sought to undermine the very fabric of our democracy and have led to violence and further divisiveness within our nation. [...] Johnson & Johnson Political Action Committee has not made any federal contributions in 2021 and has paused all political contributions while we review and evaluate our giving policies and criteria.”	Y	$83,000
JPMorgan Chase	“The terrible events from the last week have prompted us to pause and reevaluate our PAC giving strategies. We believe participating in the political process is essential, and fully intend to continue to support our PAC moving forward – but it will look different.”	N	$0
Kroger	“We are against violence in all its forms, including the riots last week in Washington, D.C. We are pausing PAC donations while we review our PAC-giving philosophy,” said Matt Perin, Kroger’s head of government relations, in a statement. ‘We plan to resume contributions once this	Y	$19,500

	assessment is completed.”
Liberty Mutual Insurance Group	“Major U.S. insurers on Wednesday decided to suspend contributions to political campaigns for the next few months, following last week’s violence at the U.S. Capitol and challenge to President-elect Joe Biden’s victory [...] Liberty Mutual said it is suspending political contributions for the first quarter and is reevaluating its contribution strategy.”	N	$0
Lockheed Martin	“The statement says the company ‘routinely evaluates and updates our political action committee contribution strategy to reflect our core values and the constantly changing political landscape and priorities. As we enter a new political cycle, we are not making political contributions as we continue this evaluation to ensure our political donation and engagement program remains aligned with our business priorities.’”	Y	$440,000
Marathon Petroleum	“Marathon Petroleum, the largest petroleum refinery operator by volume in the country, is also pausing political contributions. The Ohio-based firm did not say when it would resume them. ‘The violence that took place at the Capitol was appalling, and we condemn it unequivocally,’ Marathon Petroleum spokesman Jamal Kheiry said.”	Y	$331,500
Massachusetts Mutual Life insurance	“The MassMutual Political Action Committee (MMPAC), which is supported by contributions from thousands of MassMutual employees and financial advisors across the country, is a bipartisan federal PAC that advocates for policies that best represent the interests of our company, policyowners, and customers. Given the recent violence at the United States Capitol, which aimed to disrupt the peaceful transition of power that is a long and proud hallmark of American Democracy, MMPAC has suspended contributions to any candidate who voted against certification of the 2020 Presidential election results for any state.”	N	$0
Microsoft	“Microsoft confirmed publicly today, as it announced internally on Jan. 8, that it has	N	$0

	halted all donations of its PAC while it reviews whether to suspend further donations to individuals who voted against certification of the Electoral College. The company added that it will announce its decision by Feb. 15 after completing discussions with its employees. As Microsoft executives have said internally to employees, this is not a normal year. The company believes that opposition to the Electoral College undermined American democracy and should have consequences.”
Nationwide	“Last week’s troubling violence at the U.S. Capitol has caused us individually and collectively as a country to reflect on the actions we should take to ensure accountability. [...] Given the breadth and depth of the actions taken by many in the political process, however, Nationwide is suspending any financial contributions out of its Political Action Committee while we incorporate the broad reaching effects of these recent events into our approach and decisions going forward.”	N	$0
Nike	“Nike’s Political Action Committee (PAC) helps our employees support elected officials who understand our business and whose values align with our mission of serving athletes. These nonpartisan values rely upon upholding the principles of democracy.’ Nike said in a statement Wednesday. ‘Although we’re not yet making contributions at this point in the election cycle, Nike’s PAC will not support any member of Congress who ignores these principles, including those who voted to decertify the Electoral College results.”	N	$0
Oracle	“As a matter of law, Oracle cannot donate to candidates for Federal office. Oracle does support a non-affiliated Political Action Committee (OPAC) which raises funds from Oracle employees to support Federal candidates of their choosing. OPAC has decided to pause contributions to anyone who voted against certifying the November 2020 election results.”	Y	$21,500
PepsiCo	“We are suspending all political contributions while conducting a full review	N	$0 to ensure they align with our company's values and our shared vision going forward,' the snacks and beverage maker said in a statement."

Pfizer	"Pfizer said it will not donate 'to any of the 147 Members of Congress who voted against certifying the Electoral College results' for at least 6 months, according to an internal memo obtained by Popular Information."	Y	$149,500
Raytheon Technologies	"We have paused all political action committee contributions to reflect on the current environment and determine appropriate next steps."	Y	$369,500
State Farm Insurance	"Our organization is saddened by the events that took place on Capitol Hill. We strongly condemn violence and look forward to a peaceful transfer of power.' State Farm told WGLT in a statement. 'In light of recent events, the State Farm Federal PAC made a decision to suspend all contributions. The PAC will continue to evaluate this decision and re-examine the process used to support candidates.'"	Y	$40,000
Target	"The TargetCitizens PAC is funded through voluntary contributions from our team members and contributes in a bipartisan manner to a range of federal candidates and organizations. We know that there isn't a single candidate who aligns completely with Target or our team members on every issue, which is why we rely on established criteria like a candidate's impact on our business, committee assignments, and more when we make contributions. Target is fully transparent about our PAC contributions and provides regular updates on our corporate website. Given the political volatility of the past year, including last week's events, we are temporarily pausing all political donations."	N	$0
Tyson Foods	"We are temporarily suspending all political action committee activity while we review and consider the events of the past week."	Y	$69,000
United Parcel Service	"UPS, in a brief statement to 11Alive only said they have suspended all political action committee (PAC) contributions 'for now.'"	Y	$385,500
UnitedHealth Group	"UnitedHealth Group has decided to pause	Y	$211,500

	and review our federal PAC candidate donations to ensure they continue to align with our company's values."
Valero Energy	"In the wake of the tragic events that unfolded in Washington, D.C. last week, Valero is pausing all political contributions and has no plans to resume them over the next few months. We will continue to evaluate future contributions to assure they serve the best interest and values of our employees, shareholders, and the communities where we operate."	Y	$285,000
Verizon Communications	"We will be suspending contributions to any member of Congress who voted in favor of objecting to the election results."	Y	$140,500
Walgreens Boots	"As Walgreens continues to focus on ending the Covid-19 pandemic by delivering testing and vaccinations to communities across America, our employee political action committee has decided to suspend contributions to the members of congress who voted to object to the certification of the U.S. electoral college votes. "	Y	$31,500
Walmart	"In light of last week's attack on the U.S. Capitol, Walmart's political action committee is indefinitely suspending contributions to those members of Congress who voted against the lawful certification of state electoral college votes."	Y	$154,500
Total:			$5,481,900