

“Senior House Republicans” Knew George Santos Was Telling Lies About Himself, But Republicans In Congress Still Gave His Campaign Over $175,000

Before He Was Elected To Congress, Rep. George Santos’ Lies Were A “Running Joke” Among “Senior House Republicans.”

George Santos’ Lies About His Background Were A “Running Joke” Among “Senior House Republicans” And Republican Insiders Said “There Was Almost No Chance” Santos Would Face Sanctions Over His Fraudulent Claims, Given Republicans’ Slim Majority.

NY Post: “Senior House Republicans Were So Keenly Aware Of Alleged Inaccuracies And Embellishments In Rep-Elect George Santos’s Professional Biography, That The Topic Became A ‘Running Joke.’” “Senior House Republicans were so keenly aware of alleged inaccuracies and embellishments in Rep-elect George Santos’s professional biography, that the topic became a ‘running joke,’ multiple insiders close to House GOP leadership told The Post.” NY Post, [12/24/22]

- Rep. George Santos Is “Facing Accusations That He Lied About His Past Employment, Where He Went To School And That He Did Not Report Income On His Federal Financial Disclosures” As Well As “Accusations He’s Lied About His Jewish Heritage And Ancestors.” “Santos — who made history running as an openly gay Republican — is facing accusations that he lied about his past employment, where he went to school and that he did not report income on his federal financial disclosures — potentially a crime, the New York Times reported on Monday. He’s also facing accusations he’s lied about his Jewish heritage and ancestors, and even his sexual orientation — he had a previously undisclosed marriage to a woman until 2020, the Daily Beast reported.” NY Post, [12/24/22]

Republican House “Insiders” Stated “There Was Almost No Chance The Incoming Congressman Would Face Any Sanction From Leadership Over The Issue” Due The Slim Majority House Republicans Held. “Santos was elected during the midterms last month to represent the Long Island and Queens-based 3rd District and replace retiring Democrat Tom Suozzi. He forms a critical part of Republicans’ narrow 222 to 213 majority in the chamber. Given that paper-thin margin, there was almost no chance the incoming congressman would face any sanction from leadership over the issue, House insiders said.” NY Post, [12/24/22]

Allies Of Speaker McCarthy And Republican Conference Chair Elise Stefanik Were Aware Of Concerns That Santos May Have Been “A Fraud,” And Speaker McCarthy Even Admitted He’d “Always Had A Few Questions About” Santos’ Resume.

Throughout George Santos' Campaign, His Staff, Senior Republican Operatives, And Major New York Republican Donors Uncovered Various Lies Told By The Now Congressman And Raised Them To Senior Republican Officials, Including Associates Of Elise Stefanik.

In Summer 2021, Santos' Former Adviser "Discovered His Connections To Harbor City Capital, The Florida-Based Firm Accused Of A Ponzi Scheme" And "Took The Findings To A State Party Official Later That Fall." "In the summer of 2021, one of the former advisers to Mr. Santos, who insisted on anonymity, discovered his connections to Harbor City Capital, the Florida-based firm accused of a Ponzi scheme, and to other suspicious business practices that Mr. Santos had obscured. The adviser said he took the findings to a state party official later that fall and tried to pitch the story to a newspaper, which he said did not pursue it. The Harbor City connection was later reported in The Daily Beast." The New York Times, [1/13/23]

In December 2021, Santos' Staff Held An "Emergency" Conference Call To Discuss Their Vulnerability Study And Gave Santos "A Choice: Bow Out Of The Race With Dignity, Or Stay In And Risk Letting The Democrats Turn Up The Same Information And Use It To Destroy His Political And Personal Future." "The people working for Mr. Santos convened an emergency conference call to discuss the results on Dec. 1, 2021. They presented him with a choice: bow out of the race with dignity, or stay in and risk letting the Democrats turn up the same information and use it to destroy his political and personal future." The New York Times, [1/13/23]

- The Vulnerability Study Conducted By Santos' Campaign Found "No Evidence That Mr. Santos Had Earned Degrees," "Turned Up Records Showing His Involvement With The Company Accused Of A Ponzi Scheme," And "Eviction Records, Business Records And A Suspended Florida Driver's License." "Researchers found no evidence that Mr. Santos had earned degrees at Baruch College and New York University, as he had claimed. They turned up records showing his involvement with the company accused of a Ponzi scheme — a relationship he had played down. They found eviction records, business records and a suspended Florida driver's license, which together raised questions about whether he was a legal New York resident and as rich as he claimed to be." "Dan Conston, A Close Ally of Speaker McCarthy Who Leads The Congressional Leadership Fund, The Main House Republican Super PAC, Also Confided In Lawmakers, Donors And Other Associates That He Was Worried Information Would Come Out Exposing Mr. Santos As A Fraud." "In the run-up to the 2022 contest, Dan Conston, a close ally of Speaker Kevin McCarthy who leads the Congressional Leadership Fund, the main House Republican super PAC, also confided in lawmakers, donors and other associates that he was worried information would come out exposing Mr. Santos as a fraud, according to two people with knowledge of the conversations who insisted on anonymity to describe them and declined to provide more detail." Santos Attracted "Suspicion" From "Potential Donors Active In New York Republican Circles;" One Of Them, Kristin Bianco, Determined Santos Had Not Received Former President Trump's Endorsement As He Had Claimed And Her And A Friend "Became Suspicious That They Could Not Verify His Work History." "Around that time, Mr. Santos began attracting the suspicion of a pair of friends and potential donors active in New York Republican circles. Mr. Santos claimed to one of them, Kristin Bianco, to have secured the endorsement of former President Donald J. Trump, when he had not. That prompted her to express concerns about Mr. Santos to plugged-in Republicans, including associates of Representative Elise Stefanik of New York, one of Mr. Santos's biggest early backers whose top political aide was assisting his campaign. Later Ms. Bianco and her friend became suspicious that they could not verify his work history." The New York Times, [1/13/23]

- In Early 2022, Conservative Donor Kristin Bianco Texted Santos “We’re Just So Tired Of Being Duped.” “We’re just so tired of being duped,” Ms. Bianco texted Mr. Santos in early 2022, after he refused her request to produce his résumé. Mr. Santos wrote back that he found the request “a bit invasive as it’s something very personal.” The New York Times, [1/13/23]

Conservative Donor Kristin Bianco Expressed Her “Concerns About Mr. Santos To Plugged-In Republicans, Including Associates Of Representative Elise Stefanik Of New York, One Of Mr. Santos’s Biggest Early Backers Whose Top Political Aide Was Assisting His Campaign.” “Around that time, Mr. Santos began attracting the suspicion of a pair of friends and potential donors active in New York Republican circles. Speaker Kevin McCarthy Even Told A Reporter That He “Always Had A Few Questions About” Rep. George Santos’ Resume.

A CNN Reporter Tweeted That Speaker Kevin McCarthy Said About George Santos, “I Never Knew All About His Resume Or Not, But I Always Had A Few Questions About It.” “I asked Speaker McCarthy if he had any inkling about the allegations about George Santos before they became public, and he told me: “I never knew all about his resume or not, but I always had a few questions about it.” @MZanona, Twitter, [1/16/23]
