2023

THE LYNDE & HARRY
BRADLEY FOUNDATION

A Message from Our President and CEO

The Greek philosopher Heraclitus said that the only constant in life is change, a truth to which humans have had to adapt to from the beginning of time. Yet change in the modern era occurs at an increasingly frenetic pace. The result is uncertainty and disruption - but also opportunity and breakthroughs that improve our lives.

Philanthropy can play a unique role in this environment. It has the benefit of time to take the long view yet can also seize opportunity when it arises.

Throughout its history, The Bradley Foundation has taken the approach that meaningful, lasting change takes time. We have also strived to be nimble, giving us the flexibility to respond to a rapidly changing environment, while staying moored to our principles.

There's no better example of this than the currently vibrant movement to expand parental freedom in education. The Foundation was among the earliest proponents of parental freedom in education, providing the support to get the nation's first choice program off the ground in the early 1990s. Since then, there have been many obstacles that have slowed progress at times.

Persistence, patience, and a principled commitment to educational opportunity are paying off. Last year, education freedom expanded in more states than ever, and the year ahead looks promising.

In the following pages, you will find some of the remarkable organizations that received Bradley Foundation grants in 2023, including those fighting for education freedom. You can also read about other Foundation highlights, including the launch of our new podcast, Voices of Freedom.

I invite you to learn more about the groups whose work is anchoring America to its foundational principles during this time of great change.

Sincerely,

Our Philanthropic Legacy

In 1903, brothers Lynde and Harry Bradley launched an endeavor in Milwaukee that would have a profound impact on both the local community and the nation. Through ingenuity, hard work, risk-taking, and compassion, they built a business that eventually became the Allen-Bradley Company, a leading electronic and radio components manufacturer. In 1985, the Allen-Bradley Company was sold to Rockwell International. A portion of the proceeds of that sale provided the initial funding for The Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation.

Lynde and Harry Bradley believed in freedom and in the richness of community and culture that are the basis of a well-lived life. The Bradley Foundation seeks to further those beliefs by supporting the study, defense, and practice of the individual initiative and ordered liberty that lead to prosperity, strong families, and vibrant communities. So far, The Bradley Foundation has awarded over $1 billion in grants to almost 2,000 nonprofit organizations. This includes organizations supporting community life in Milwaukee and throughout Wisconsin, as well as organizations committed to preserving and defending the traditions of representative government and private enterprise that enable America to flourish.

Our Vision, Mission and Guiding Principles

Lynde Bradley (1906)

Harry Bradley (1912)

Steadfastly adhering to the principles and examples of its namesakes, Lynde and Harry Bradley, The Bradley Foundation envisions a nation invigorated by the principles and institutions that uphold our unalienable rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

To further this vision, The Bradley Foundation pursues a mission to restore, strengthen, and protect the principles and institutions of American exceptionalism.

The Foundation has articulated the following guiding principles to inform its grantmaking:

- Fidelity to the Constitution, with its principles of limited government, federalism, separation of powers, and individual liberties;
- Commitment to free markets that allow for private enterprise, entrepreneurship, and voluntary exchange within the rule of law;
- Commitment to the fundamental institutions of civil society that cultivate individuals capable of self-governance; and
- Dedication to the formation of informed and capable citizens.
